Hello,

I just received the rejection of the certificate of readiness, which I filed in addition to the remaining documents required for this matter (motion to modify, declaration in support, etc.). The issue is that I should not have to contact Judge Troy for this matter because we are no longer residents of Multnomah County and we certainly are not of a mind to have Judge Troy continue to preside over this matter - especially now that we, thankfully, have moved out of his jurisdiction and back to Washington County where this matter originated. Somehow, Judge Pagan, received a request to grant Multnomah County Auxiliary Jurisdiction over this matter - which was limited. The case necessitating such a transfer has since been closed and it will be critical that my family be afforded the benefit of filing in our county of residence.

I plan to refile this matter with Washington County now, using the original case number and I do hope that Judge Troy is able to recognize he no longer should have jurisdiction to preside over this matter or any matter for my family in Washington County. We should have the opportunity to file this matter in Washington County without having to meet additional requirements outside of being a resident of Washington County. I communicate this email proactively so that Multnomah County is aware that this matter has been transferred back to the originating county.

Thank you.

Regards,
AshLe' Penn
